Since its formation in 1893, the International Association of Chiefs of Police has met annually to share insight, learn about promising practices, and discuss up-and-coming technology. Each year thousands of law enforcement executives from State, local, tribal, and international agencies come together to continue this tradition by attending training sessions, networking with peers, and exploring the state of the art Expo Hall.

This year's IACP Conference was held in Orlando, FL, from October 23 ? 27, and the Federal government had a strong presence at the meeting. Partnerships with State, local, and tribal partners are critical to the success of the Information Sharing Environment. Over the course of five days, Program Manager Kshemendra Paul addressed more than twenty meetings, panels, working groups and gatherings to communicate the way ahead for the ISE. Additionally, speakers from the Obama Administration, including Vice President Joe Biden, DHS Secretary Janet Napolitano, Attorney General Eric Holder and FBI Director Robert Mueller, spoke to the conference attendees about the importance of information sharing among all levels of government and public safety to ensure the security of the American people.
